Headline:

Dry and bright, some cloud and drizzle in north Sunday.

This Evening and Tonight:

Most staying dry with clear spells. However overcast skies and patchy rain lingering across Borders, also perhaps Lothian, also some patchy rain for the far north by dawn. Winds light mainly from the northwest.

Sunday:

Fine, dry day for the majority and feeling quite warm especially in the east when it's sunny and light breezes. Across far north and northwest quite cloudy with occasional drizzle.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:

Fair, dry and sunny with light winds for most. However low cloud and patchy light rain expected across far north Monday, which feeds down the eastern coastal fringes from Tuesday.
